RALEIGH, N. C., January 2, 1919.

His Excellency, T. W. BICKETT,
Governor of North Carolina,
Raleigh, N. C.

SIR:—In presenting our annual report, covering operation of the revenue laws of the State, and recommendations with respect to future revenue legislation, we are very much pleased to be able to report that the results from the Revenue Act of 1917 have more than met the expectations of the committees of the last General Assembly which framed it. The act was not drawn in anticipation of the increased costs of maintaining the State Government and its institutions upon a war basis of operating costs, but ample revenue has been yielded under it to meet all the appropriations made by the last General Assembly and to convert a deficit of $169,076.98 at the close of the fiscal year 1916, into a net surplus of $201,238.93 at the close of the fiscal year 1918, after setting aside and deducting all unexpended appropriations—an amount sufficient to take care of any institutional deficits by reason of increased maintenance costs.

We believe the incoming General Assembly will be interested in the sources from which this largely increased revenue has come, and particularly as, in our opinion, it reveals a tendency that should be nurtured until it reaches a point of maturity that will permit the State to relinquish all of its taxes levied upon the property of the State for its own uses.

All sources of public revenue have to some extent responded to the period of unprecedented prosperity, and there has been a continued gradual increase in assessed values of property until for the year 1918 these values exceeded a billion dollars. But the most striking increases have come from inheritance, income, license, privilege and franchise taxes.

The Finance Committees of the Senate and House of the General Assembly of 1913 were advised by this department that large increases in revenue could be derived from these sources. The suggestions made at that time were in part adopted, and the Commission was given more direct responsibility for enforcement of the laws covering these taxes, and in 1915 was given authority to employ special agents to assist in enforcing them.

This class of taxes yielded in 1918 $987,847.29, as compared with $264,820.94 from the same sources in 1912. The total taxes collected in 1918 from sources other than the general property and poll taxes exceeded a million and a half dollars.

We attach a statement showing the annual growth of State revenue from these sources since 1912. We believe this statement will be found interesting, and that it points the way in which the State's revenue should be exclusively levied in the near future. We have made enough progress in this direction to know that the million and a half of revenue from these sources is but a beginning in the production of revenue that may be equitably developed from them. Under the laws as they are now written we can give assurance, based upon accrued liability, of an increase next year of at least a half a million dollars from one of the forms of tax mentioned. The Special Legislative Tax Commission, in its report to the General Assembly, has recommended additional privilege taxes that will yield large revenue, if adopted, and has also recommended the submission of a constitutional amendment that will permit the extension of our income tax to cover income from all sources. We can demonstrate from the records of our department that under reasonable rates the income tax, enlarged to apply to income from all sources, would yield additional revenue in excess of that now collected by the State from the general property tax. We are taking the liberty of printing as an appendix to this letter the communication addressed to your Excellency, October 22, 1918, by a member of this Commission, presenting an argument in favor of repealing the prohibition in our Constitution of taxing the income from property, and we recommend the submission of such an amendment.

The responsibility placed upon this Commission by the Machinery Act of making recommendations to the General Assembly with respect to revenue legislation is in part relieved by the Special Tax Commission created by, and under authority of the last Legislature. The chairman of this Commission being ex officio a member of the Special Tax Commission, we are advised of the conclusions reached by that Commission, and wish to give our approval to its recommendations. We believe they will be found of great value to the General Assembly in meeting the extraordinary conditions of the next two years.

The General Assembly will have before it the problem of deciding upon the character of assessment of real estate that is to be made the coming year and the means by which it shall be done. There probably has never been in the history of the State such prosperity as it has enjoyed the last two years, and this prosperity has been reflected in the selling value of real estate, both rural and urban, and leaves a wider spread than ever before between actual and assessed values. The largely increased actual values will necessarily mean that increased tax values will be made under any reasonable method of appraisal that may be provided. We take it there will be general agreement that a substantial increase should be made. The members of the General Assembly, coming from every county in the State, are familiar with conditions, and it is peculiarly the function of the General Assembly to dictate in matters of public revenue. The State Tax Commission is clothed with broad general powers, under existing laws, which it has no purpose to use arbitrarily. So far as we have the power, and the means of using it intelligently, we shall endeavor to see that assessments are made with approximate equality as between the several counties. But we should like to have instruction from the General Assembly. Those who are appointed to go out and do this work will want to know what is expected of them. And they ought to know before the work is undertaken what they are expected to do.

Are they expected to assess property at its actual value?

Or shall we adopt the expedient of a fixed percentage of actual value as a measuring rod to be used alike in all counties?

Or the still easier expedient of instructing a fixed percentage of increase as a guide of general average?

These are clearly legislative questions, and upon them we must seek legislative answer in some form.

We are frankly of opinion that reasonably accurate full value assessments cannot be made between the period of legislative adjournment and the time in which tax books for the current year must be made out, nor can they be made by township assessors having no more than two months employment at a common labor wage. Indeed, it may be stated more strongly than a mere matter of opinion. Our own experience, and the experience of other states, demonstrate as a fact that accurate full value assessments cannot be made in this way, and if the General Assembly leaves the matter in this form we will have little difficulty in understanding the legislative intent.

The need for assessment at actual value becomes greater as the spread between actual and assessed values has become greater on the one hand, and as increasing governmental costs necessitate continually increasing tax rates on the other. This situation is made still more acute by the adoption, by a majority of one hundred thousand, of the constitutional requirement that a six months school be maintained in every district in the State, and by living conditions which make the cost of school operation substantially greater. The demand grows also for greater expenditures for modern public roads and streets. These, and other demands, make it necessary either that property be assessed at full value, or that we rely more and more upon one subterfuge or another to evade and exceed the constitutional limitation of tax rates, and thus continue adding to and piling up tax rates that are a real burden and menace to property that is fairly returned and fairly assessed.

The fair assessment of all the property of the State at actual value is an enterprise worthy of the time and means necessary to its accomplishment.

If it is desired to make such an assessment we respectfully suggest:

1st. That an assessment in the usual way be provided for by this General Assembly to stand for the next two years, while the machinery for assessment at full value is being put in motion and the assessment is being made, equalized, tested and approved.

2d. That the machinery for such full value assessment be provided by this General Assembly, beginning with a well-paid county officer in each county, to give his entire time for the next two years at least to the work, and to have complete charge of the work and provided with necessary assistants, to be appointed by him, to make thorough investigation into and list and value all the real property of his county.

3d. A county equalization board to give full hearing to all complaints, with appeal from their decision to the State Tax Commission by either the county officer in charge of the assessment or the complaining taxpayer.

4th. The entire county list, when passed upon by the County Board of Equalization, to be certified to the State Tax Commission.

5th. The State Tax Commission to be given ample power and means to institute its own investigation by special agents in each county to test the basis of value used in making its assessments in such county, and to raise or lower the list for any county, as such investigation may show to be proper.

6th. The completed and equalized lists thus made up to be reported to the General Assembly of 1921 for adoption.

7th. Provision to be made by the General Assembly of 1921 for adjusting all the rates—state, county and municipal—to the new basis of assessment, and to become effective contemporaneous with it, so that the correct amount of revenue and no more will be raised under it.

We believe it will take some such comprehensive machinery as we have indicated to bring about a full, fair and equal assessment of real property.

If the income tax amendment should be submitted and adopted, the General Assembly of 1921, to which the completed assessment would be reported, would be in position to raise all the revenue for the State Government and all its institutions, except the public schools, from taxes other than on property and poll, and the full value assessment would be used only for local taxes and the public schools.

We do not advocate the development of a system of State revenue entirely independent of the property tax with the view that the State would then leave each of the counties to go its own way in assessing its property and raising local revenue. The State should not shirk its duty to see that a uniform system prevails in each of the one hundred counties, and the obligation to maintain a six months school in every county makes it necessary that this be done. But the problem will be easier when it can be performed by the State purely as a disinterested public service.

Revenue needs are great and will continue to increase as greater service from the State and its political sub-divisions is demanded by the public in all the lines of its benevolence and helpful service, but, with confidence in the continued watchful and economical expenditure of public funds, which has become a well fixed habit in this State, we make bold to say that the General Assembly can find the means of revenue for every legitimate demand of progress and development, if ways that meet the demands of equity are found for raising it.

If the General Assembly does not see fit to make provision for a careful assessment of real property at actual value, we believe that the second alternative suggested—a fixed percentage at which all property should be returned and assessed—should be adopted, either by the General Assembly or by the State Tax Commission, to the end that all classes of property may be valued by the same standard in all counties.

We shall hope to have the privilege of presenting to the Finance Committees of the General Assembly suggestions in detail, which would be tiresome in a formal report, for improvements in the Revenue and Machinery Acts, as the different sections of these acts are considered by them. In this formal report we will only make the one further appeal to the General Assembly and to the public that the business of raising the ever increasing revenue needs of a growing State be recognized as the large enterprise that it is, requiring not only wisdom and experience in the construction of the laws levying the taxes, but a comprehensive and adequate organization to administer and enforce them. The most unjust tax is the one that is not equally enforced against all who are liable for it. The results of indifferent or inadequate enforcement of tax laws, which permits one to pay and another to escape, are no less vicious in effect than intentional favoritism which permits the same results. Machinery for administering and enforcing tax laws should be at every point intelligent, efficient and adequate.

Respectfully submitted,

W. T. Lee, Chairman.

Letter Advocating Amending Constitution to Permit Taxing Income From Property

Raleigh, N. C., October 22, 1918.

Hon. T. W. Bickett,
Chairman Special Tax Commission,
Executive Office, Raleigh, N. C.

I had the honor of presenting to the National Tax Association in Atlanta last November a paper on the tax situation in North Carolina, in which I undertook to set out as a desirable scheme of taxation for this State:

The development of a system of taxes independent of the general property tax, adequate to meet the needs of the State Government, and leaving all of the general property tax for local needs, as preferable to a reliance upon the general property tax for both state and local governments, or to a system of segregation of certain classes of property for exclusive State taxes and other classes of property for exclusive local taxes.

That paper was prepared under a limitation of a twenty minutes rule and did not permit discussion of some essential details. For this reason the most important form of tax for exclusive State revenue that I had in mind at that time was passed over for discussion at some other time when it could be adequately presented—the taxation by and for the State of personal income from all sources in lieu of the State property tax, and of corporate incomes in lieu of the corporate excess and State property tax.

It has been a matter of surprise to me that in all the discussions of constitutional changes we have had in this State there has been no suggestion of repeal of the one clause in it that to my mind is most out of joint with the times in which we live, and the repeal of which would in my judgment meet with the strongest public approval, if submitted, and that is the prohibition of taxing incomes derived from property, or unearned income. This provision of our Constitution is as follows:

> "The General Assembly may also tax trades, professions, franchises, and incomes: Provided, that no income shall be taxed when the property from which the income is derived is taxed."

It will be a long time before the opinion of Premier Lloyd George will fail to pass current in any company that can fairly appraise statesmanship. Before the exigencies of the present war he stated as a conclusion that had found universal acceptance that unearned income should be taxed—not equally with earned income—but at a higher rate than earned income. Since this memorandum was prepared our own Secretary McAdoo has insisted that in the preparation of the new Federal Revenue Bill there should be a differential of 3 per cent in the tax on unearned incomes, or that the tax on unearned incomes should be 25 per cent greater than the tax on earned incomes.

Our method of handling income taxation is to tax earned incomes—that which is the product of the personal toil, the personal skill, or the intellectual achievement of the citizen, while we stand under this prohibition of levying any tax at all upon that class of income which comes through no personal effort but which flows as the natural result of the ownership of property.

We have in this State the citizen whose personal income from ownership of property approximates a million dollars per year, which we leave, as I mean to demonstrate before I am through absolutely untaxed, while we tax the modest income of his secretary, his engineer, his lawyer, his doctor and every employee whose salary exceeds $1,250 per year.

We tax a class of incomes which impose a real burden upon those taxed, but do not yield large revenue, and leave untaxed the class of income that could be paid without personal sacrifice and that would yield abundant revenue.

We would have to travel far to find anything in government more absurd than this.

I have a full share of reverence for "the wisdom of the ancients." Generally they builded wisely with the material at hand, and with due deference to the wisdom of experience behind them. I can find much in the conditions of the past to justify the false philosophy upon which this provision of our Constitution was founded. Property consisted largely of unproductive and uncultivated lands. That which was cultivated was made to serve mainly the personal needs of the owner, and when the property was taxed the owner was taxed.

That is absolutely not true of property in general today. Taxes do not apply against the owner of the property, but against the user of the property, or against the one who in the last analysis uses the product of the property. The tax against property is a tax against the owner so far, and only so far, as the property is used personally by the owner. To the extent that the man of wealth uses a more costly home, furnishings, automobiles, etc., and returns them for taxation, to that extent he pays a larger property tax than his neighbor. But as to all of his property that is successfully put to the production of income the tax is paid by those who use it or who use its product.

The tax upon a cotton mill is just as much a part of the expense of operation of the plant, that goes into the cost of producing its product, as the cost of the coal that feeds its boilers, or the labor that runs its machinery, and goes into the price of its product and is paid for (with added interest) by those who purchase its product. The tax is no more a personal charge against the owner than is its coal bill, its labor bill, or any other expense of its operation.

This rule will hold true of all property that is successfully put to the earning of income and to the extent that it is taxed equally with other property competitive with it. The composite tax rate in the city of Raleigh is 2⅔ per cent of assessed value of the property. Who pays this tax upon rental property—the owner or the user? To ask the question is to answer it. Would any one contend for a minute that rentals are not made sufficiently high to cover the taxes in addition to a fair return on the property? If the necessity should arise for doubling this tax would not rentals be raised to meet the increased tax and perhaps leave the landlord a little extra stipend to salve his feelings for the additional tax he was passing on to his tenant? Yet we tax the modest salary income of the tenant and exempt the unearned income of the landlord, and the untaxed landlord gets his exemption upon the payment of a tax which the taxed tenant furnishes him the money to pay.

This principle that the user pays the tax on property is of such universal application that it has been said, and I believe with exact accuracy, that there are only two forms of tax that cannot be passed on down the line to the purchasing public—the personal income tax and the inheritance tax. The accuracy of this principle is so well recognized in Wisconsin that they not only tax the income of the landlord, from property, but they charge the landlord with income on the rental value of his own home to equalize the tax equity as between home-owners and home-renters.

The personal income tax hugs the person against whom it is assessed. He can find no way to shake it off. It applies against a privilege personal to himself. A scheme of taxing incomes that exempts the income that earns itself—that income which represents the natural increase of property—while taxing earned incomes, is shockingly inequitable and should not be permitted to continue. If we cannot find the means of taxing unearned incomes we ought to extend our exemptions to cover earned incomes.

In my opinion our income tax should be extended to cover income from all sources against persons and corporations, and used as a substitute for so much of the general property tax now levied for State purposes as cannot be made up from other sources of revenue.

By universal consent the general property tax is relied upon as the main source of county and municipal revenue in all states. It is subject to one fundamental infirmity that will always, and under the most scientific methods of administration, stand in the way of its ability to carry the total of revenue needs of state, county, and city, and which will always defeat the purpose to require every citizen to contribute to the support of government in proportion to his prosperity. It needs an auxiliary support that the income tax is almost perfectly fitted to meet.

The general property tax depends first upon an appraisal. The appraisal of value must be made with reference to its earning capacity. Here is where we meet its incurable infirmity. Earning capacity is a highly speculative element, and as tax administration must always be conservative, its probable earning capacity in the future is discounted by every element of chance and value is appraised upon what would be found as its assured, or minimum, earning capacity.

No principle of science has yet been found by which we can look into the future and discover where and when unusual profits are to be made. Following a general rule of averages it is about as likely to come to the industry that is having its period of depression today. But as it is presented to the tax assessor nearly all property has misfortune behind it, with it, or just ahead of it, which must have its influence upon the value placed upon it for future taxation, and the valuation pace is set by the cripples in the race.

The disposition to give the property owner the benefit of every possible doubt is well illustrated by the familiar instance in every city where some citizen has held a tract of land off the market until the city had grown up around it. In spite of every admonition from supervising authority, and with full knowledge of its enhanced value, local assessors continue to assess it as farm lands, until finally sold off in lots, at from ten to a hundred dollars a front foot, and the proceeds invested in non-taxable securities or some form of intangibles that could be secreted from the taxlister.

This but illustrates the general principle. The same kind of treatment is accorded the most prosperous business in the community. The more prosperous it may have been the more it will be contended that its previous prosperity was abnormal and could not be expected to continue, and could not, therefore, be fairly used as the basis of appraising its value for the future.

The owner is given the benefit of every doubt, and, to state it in the most conservative terms, the public loses the right to participate in any abnormal or speculative earnings. Under this system the persistent tendency is for prosperity to go untaxed; the richest part of the harvest escapes the tax gleaner. The general property tax can't reach it, and we are not permitted to reach it through an income tax.

As an instrument for taxing a fair proportion of prosperity, the income tax is as much superior to the general property tax as hindsight is superior to foresight, or, as an ascertained fact is superior to a poor guess.

The genuine income tax—

Doesn't speculate.
It doesn't look to the future.
It attaches itself to the achieved result.
It plays no favorites.
It commits no wrong.
It leaves untouched the unfortunate.
It is generous with wealth that for the time is unproductive.

But it exacts its full toll where and when fortune favors, and permits the State to share, in equitable proportion, in the prosperity of her people.

The reasoning that taxes levied upon income producing property are paid by the user, rather that the owner of the property, is as sound as any law of economics, and would justify the taxing of the income of the owner in addition to the tax upon the property paid by the user. But even if this reasoning should not meet the assent of the public mind, there can certainly be no sound objection, upon grounds of double taxation, to the taxing for the State of the income derived from property if at the same time we exempt the property from its payment of state taxes, and leave it to carry only its part of the burden of local taxes. Indeed it may be seriously argued that this may be done even under the existing constitutional prohibition of taxing income derived from property taxed, upon the construction that the income cannot be taxed if the property from which derived is taxed for the same purpose, and that if the property is relieved from state tax, an income tax for the State may be substituted for it, but it would probably not be safe to launch out upon such a new course of taxation without removing this prohibition from the Constitution.

There has been for several years in this State a recognized need for relieving real estate of the burden of supporting both state and local governments. This combined burden has had the effect of running tax rates to unreasonable limits and has been found to be a substantial difficulty in the way of getting real estate properly assessed. Local communities have found the state tax upon real estate a sufficient excuse to hold down assessed values to such small percentages of real value as to threaten the whole structure of ad valorem taxation.

Without in any way weakening the protection of the general principle of our Constitution of taxation by a uniform rule, applying alike to all property and to all the people of the State, we can by this means leave to the local communities all the revenue from their physical properties, including the physical properties of private and public service corporations, and at the same time provide, through the means of this income tax, applying to income from all sources, a sufficient volume of revenue, supplementing the receipts from privilege, license, franchise and inheritance taxes, to meet generously the needs of the State Government. The income tax, unrestricted except by a nominal exemption, can be made to yield any desired amount, within reason, depending upon the rate and graduation of the tax, the amount of exemption, etc.

The income tax could be made to cover the unearned increment in real estate values by a legislative construction that all profit from the sale of real estate should be deemed to be income for the year in which sold, and such profit returned for income tax.

Adoption of the income tax as a substitute for the general property tax for State revenue would permit the State to get adequate revenue from the foreign corporations doing business in the State. A large number of the most important manufacturing enterprises in the State are organized under charters from Jersey or some other state, so that under our general property tax we cannot assess their capital stock for taxation, and this results in quite a discrimination against those manufacturing enterprises which are organized under our own State laws. But while we cannot reach the capital stock of such corporations for ad valorem taxation, under an income tax law we could tax so much of the income of such corporations as was earned in this State, and from this source alone a very considerable part of the revenue now received by the State from its tax on property could be made up, and upon a basis that would be exactly fair as between domestic and foreign corporations.

The State income tax is growing in favor with recognized authorities on taxation as the soundest method of relief from intolerable rates of the general property tax, and as furnishing an auxiliary support to it that is sound in every particular. With moderate rates of exemption it would take its contribution from every class of citizen in every community having an income above that necessary for actual support, and grade the tax in direct proportion to his prosperity. In Wisconsin, where since 1911 they have taxed income from all sources, the personal exemptions begin with $800 per year for the unmarried; $1,200 for husband and wife, and $200 additional exemption for each child under 18 years of age. The Wisconsin income tax rate graduates from 1 to 6 per cent, reaching 6 per cent above $12,000.

Our neighbor State of Virginia has adopted a tax upon income from all sources in its new scheme of taxation, with personal exemption of $1,200; for husband and wife, $1,800, and for each child under 21 years of age $200.

I attach quotation of opinion from two of the most distinguished students of tax problems in our country. The first opinion quoted from Carl C. Plehn, Professor of Finance, University of California, is after several years of observation of working in that state of the most complete system of property segregation and classification undertaken in any state:

> "To my mind the ultimate solution is to be found in what I am accustomed to consider as true separation as distinct from segregation. This is the establishment of new and independent taxes for State purposes.
> "There are a great many such taxes which might be considered, but they are all make-shifts, except one, namely: the income tax.
>
> "It should be, in my opinion, the mainstay of the State revenue system, including the general provisions for schools of all grades up to and including the University."

From Charles J. Bullock, Professor of Economics, Harvard University, and President of the National Tax Association:

> "The foregoing discussion leads to the conclusion that neither the income tax nor the classified property is always and at every point to be preferred to the other; that these taxes are, to a large extent, merely different methods of doing the same thing; and that they ought to be regarded as imposts, not mutually exclusive, but capable of being combined in a logical and practicable scheme of taxation.
> "If every citizen were taxable at his domicile upon his entire income without exemption or deduction except such as may be proper in the case of small incomes, and if then all tangible property were taxed, under a proper classification, at its situs, we should have the simplest, most logical, and most satisfactory of all solutions.
> "Finally the State income tax should not be regarded as the rival, but rather as the complement or helpmeet, of the classified property tax."

It seems to me that this policy would leave us but one very perplexing problem, and that is the problem of taxing intangible personal property. This has been the most perplexing problem in every state. It is the rock upon which the ad valorem system breaks with greatest force, and almost literally falls down. Experience is practically universal that this class of property—intangible, easily concealed, and with income limited to a low level—will not submit itself to the high rates of the general property tax and that it will find some way of avoidance even leave to the local communities all the revenue from their physical properties, including the physical properties of private and public service corporations, and at the same time provide, through the means of this income tax, applying to income from all sources, a sufficient volume of revenue, supplementing the receipts from privilege, license, franchise and inheritance taxes, to meet generously the needs of the State Government. The income tax, unrestricted except by a nominal exemption, can be made to yield any desired amount, within reason, depending upon the rate and graduation of the tax, the amount of exemption, etc.

The income tax could be made to cover the unearned increment in real estate values by a legislative construction that all profit from the sale of real estate should be deemed to be income for the year in which sold, and such profit returned for income tax.

Adoption of the income tax as a substitute for the general property tax for State revenue would permit the State to get adequate revenue from the foreign corporations doing business in the State. A large number of the most important manufacturing enterprises in the State are organized under charters from Jersey or some other state, so that under our general property tax we cannot assess their capital stock for taxation, and this results in quite a discrimination against those manufacturing enterprises which are organized under our own State laws. But while we cannot reach the capital stock of such corporations for ad valorem taxation, under an income tax law we could tax so much of the income of such corporations as was earned in this State, and from this source alone a very considerable part of the revenue now received by the State from its tax on property could be made up, and upon a basis that would be exactly fair as between domestic and foreign corporations.

The State income tax is growing in favor with recognized authorities on taxation as the soundest method of relief from intolerable rates of the general property tax, and as furnishing an auxiliary support to it that is sound in every particular. With moderate rates of exemption it would take its contribution from every class of citizen in every community having an income above that necessary for actual support, and grade the tax in direct proportion to his prosperity. In Wisconsin, where since 1911 they have taxed income from all sources, the personal exemptions begin with $800 per year for the unmarried; $1,200 for husband and wife, and $200 additional exemption for each child under 18 years of age. The Wisconsin income tax rate graduates from 1 to 6 per cent, reaching 6 per cent above $12,000.

Our neighbor State of Virginia has adopted a tax upon income from all sources in its new scheme of taxation, with personal exemption of $1,200; for husband and wife, $1,800, and for each child under 21 years of age $200.

I attach quotation of opinion from two of the most distinguished students of tax problems in our country. The first opinion quoted from Carl C. It seems to me that this policy would leave us but one very perplexing problem, and that is the problem of taxing intangible personal property. This has been the most perplexing problem in every state. It is the rock upon which the ad valorem system breaks with greatest force, and almost literally falls down. Experience is practically universal that this class of property—intangible, easily concealed, and with income limited to a low level—will not submit itself to the high rates of the general property tax and that it will find some way of avoidance even when the most drastic measures of "search and seizure" are resorted to. An infinitesimal part of it finds its way on the tax books. The local communities would lose but little revenue by releasing it from local taxes, and could well afford to do so in exchange for the release of all real estate and tangible personal property from State taxes. It should be exempt from the general property tax either by authority of constitutional amendment or by the expedient of leaving from the tax abstract which the taxpayer is required to return any inquiry as to property of this class, and there should be substituted for it a tax upon the income derived from such property, at such rate as would constitute a fair contribution to government by such property, and this income should go to the State. This method has been adopted in a number of states with results that have been highly gratifying, both from the standpoint of largely increased public revenue, and of the distribution of sources from which received, so that only a moderate tax was imposed upon any one. As a substitute for all other taxes on this class of property the income tax rate should be about 10 per cent of the income, without exemption, which would be equal, upon 6 per cent paper, to a rate of 60 cents per $100 of par value, or about 25 per cent of the present combined rate in municipalities.

Let no man say again that North Carolina is a State where poverty abounds. Wealth has been accumulated so rapidly that it presents a serious problem if we are not prepared to use it wisely. The State Tax Commission gets a comprehensive view of this rapid growth of wealth in confidential reports that would thrill the public mind if visualized before it. We have become a wealthy State.

We have a very striking exemplification of this conclusion also in the recent report by the Treasury Department that the Federal Government collected seventy millions of dollars in revenue in North Carolina the past year. This sum is about equal to that which the State Government of North Carolina has collected for its own uses from all revenue sources in all the years since the Civil War combined. The Federal Government collected more revenue in each one of several counties in this State last year, than the State Government collected in all the counties in the State.

But with all this production of wealth the State Treasury still finds it difficult to make both ends meet, while it meets in a way grossly inadequate the proper demands of its institutions established to serve the needs of a rapidly growing state. We cannot adequately or equitably tax this prosperity under tax laws that limit us to an appraisal of the basic value of the property that earns this wealth. We need to adopt, as auxiliary to it, this principle of taxation that leaves speculation to take care of itself, and which attaches itself to the accomplished result and takes its toll of the money that actually comes into the till.

The State is not maintaining the growth of its institutions and agencies of service with that of the wealth and progress of her people. This should be a matter of concern to all our people. The time is rapidly approaching when the people, in their prosperity and progress, are going to be ashamed that the State is not measuring its progress in education, its benevolences, and in its agencies of helpful service, with the material prosperity of her people.

After-the-war conditions will place new responsibilities upon us. Certainly we must go forward with a comprehensive program of public health protection, public road building and other public improvements and with enlarged and improved educational facilities.

Wealth will be a blessing to us only in proportion as we use it to serve worthy ends and purposes.

It will not be any problem to raise enough revenue, in this wealthy and prosperous State, if we can find the means of meeting the demands of equity and fair dealing in raising it. The first requisite is tax laws that our consciences can approve.

We can render the State no greater service than in laying the foundation for adequate revenue for its progressive future upon sound principles of equity.

The tax program herein suggested would, in the language of Professor Bullock, give us "the simplest, most logical and most satisfactory of all solutions"; would unfetter local communities in giving to them all of the proceeds of the general property tax, and leave to the State an unfailing source of revenue, levied upon lines of exact equity, and limited only by the prosperity of its people.

It should be further borne in mind that this limitation in our Constitution upon the taxing power of the State was put there when the revenue needs of the State were simple; when public supervision of sanitation and health conditions had not been thought of; when there was not a public road tax in any county in the State; when public education had not been in fact recognized as a public obligation, and many years before there was a public graded school in the State. It has no place in the organic law of the modern state, and should be removed at the first opportunity.

The governing section of our Constitution on taxation now reads:

> "Laws shall be passed, taxing, by a uniform rule, all moneys, credits, investments in bonds, stocks, joint stock companies or otherwise; and, also, all real and personal property, according to its true value in money. The General Assembly may also tax trades, professions, franchises, and incomes: Provided, that no income shall be taxed when the property from which the income is derived is taxed."

This section should be changed to read:

"Laws shall be passed taxing, by a uniform rule, all real and personal property, according to its true value in money: Provided, the General Assembly may tax the income from credits, bonds, and other intangible personal property, in lieu of all other taxes on such property. The General Assembly may also tax trades, professions, franchises and incomes."
